Noted Soviet economist joins staff

Dr. Vladimir Soloviev, a noted Soviet economist, joined the College of Administrative Science faculty in August for a six-month appointment as UAH's first Presidential Visiting Scholar. He is the university's first visiting scholar from the Soviet Union. While at UAH, Dr. Soloviev will do research regarding economic development and the management of technology.

"We're pleased to have someone of Dr. Soloviev's caliber to work with our students, faculty, professional staff, and business community," said Dr. David Billings, dean of the College of Administrative Science. "This program will improve communication and understanding between our two countries."

Huntsville business leader John Hathaway is sponsoring Soloviev's visit. He recently visited the Soviet Union as a member of a delegation from the American Center for International Leadership.

Dr. Soloviev earned his doctorate from the Institute of World Economy and Industrial Relations in Moscow, where he specialized in the productivity and profitability of companies that produce advanced materials, such as superconducting ceramics. Dr. Soloviev is now affiliated with the Institute as a Research Fellow. As such, he has analyzed proposed changes in Soviet law and compared American and Japanese technologies in silicon manufacturing.

Students urged to attend conference

Thousands of student environmental activists from all 50 states and several foreign countries will gather at CATALYST: The National Student Environmental Conference, October 5-7, 1990 at the University of Illinois, Champaign-Urbana campus. CATALYST will build on the energy and enthusiasm of Earth Day student organizing and map out the future of the student environmental movement.

The conference is organized by the Student Environmental Action Coalition (SEAC), a coalition of student environmental activists that organized last year's THRESHOLD conference, which attracted 1700 students from 43 states.

Since THRESHOLD, the student environmental movement has grown tremendously. "We're sitting on a volcano," conference organizer Chris Fox said, "as the Cold War thaws out, the atmosphere is heating up, and the environment is rising to the top of students' agenda."

Students at CATALYST will broaden the environmental movement by forging ties with minority, labor, and social justice groups. In addition, American students will meet students from Eastern Europe and other countries to jointly attack global environmental problems.

At CATALYST, SEAC will launch its corporate accountability campaign to use the political and economic clout of students to change the environmental behavior of the business world.

Confirmed speakers for the plenary sessions include Ralph Nader, consumer and environmental advocate; Helen Caldicott, Founder, Physicians for Social Responsibility; Robert Redford, actor and environmental activist; Winona LaDuke, President, Indigenous Women's Network; Cesar Chavez, President, United Farm Workers; Marta Benavides, Director, Ecumenical Ministry for Development and Peace; Randall Hayes, Director, Rainforest Action Network-and many others.

"Campuses have traditionally been a breeding ground for new thought, and students have been important catalysts for change relating to issues such as anti-war movements, civil rights, and apartheid in South Africa," said conference organizer Paula Ackermann. "Now, students are mobilizing to stop the war against the earth."

Engineering, science majors have opportunity to research

Are you studying computer science, engineering, physics, environmental and life sciences, mathematics or chemistry? If so, you may be interested in the Oak Ridge Science and Engineering Research Semester (ORSERS). ORSERS is offering college juniors and seniors an opportunity to do hands-on research at Oak Ridge National Laboratory (ORNL) in Tennessee during the academic year.

ORSERS is part of a nationwide effort by the U.S. Department of Energy to increase the quality and quantity of students preparing for careers in science, mathematics and engineering and is managed by Oak Ridge Associated Universities, Oak Ridge, Tenn. Participants become members of research teams engaged in long-range, intensive investigations employing advanced facilities and equipment. Fields of study include artificial intelligence, biomedicine, chemistry, environmental and life sciences, computing and telecommunications, physics, mathematics and engineering.

While the emphasis of the program is on hands-on research, ORSERS also includes an educational enrichment component. Participants attend seminars and symposiums sponsored by the divisions at ORNL and have the option of enrolling in a laboratory-approved course at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville or other nearby colleges. Students are also encouraged to arrange for the granting of academic credit by their home institutions for the research semester.

According to National Science

Foundation studies, by the year 2000 the United States will not have enough scientists and engineers to meet its needs. "Manpower projections for all types of scientists and engineers show the future demand for these specialists to be much greater than the supply," says ORSERS program manager Ernestine Friedman. "Experts contend that the gap is widening to serious, if not critical, levels."

To be eligible for participation in ORSERS, students must be 18 years of age, have completed the sophomore year at an accredited U.S. college or university and be a U.S. citizen of permanent resident alien. They must be working toward a degree in science, mathematics or engineering. Guidelines suggest an overall grade point average of 3.0 or higher, based on A-4.0.

While in the program, ORSERS participants will receive a weekly stipend of $200 per week, free housing, and travel reimbursement for relocation to the appointment site.

For more information on the ORSERS program, contact Ernestine Friedman, ORSERS Program Manager, Science/Engineering Education Division, Oak Ridge Associated Universities, P.O. Box 117, Oak Ridge, TN 37831-0117.

The application deadline for the 1991 spring semester is Oct. 20, 1990. The 1991 fall term deadline is March 15, 1991.

Large grant awarded by Alabama Commission on Higher Education

A $20,000 grant was recently awarded to UAH by the Alabama Commission on Higher Education through the Alabama Universities/TVA Research Consortium (AUTRC).

AUTRC was established in 1984 to encourage cooperative research among scientists, engineers and economists at Alabama universities and the Tennessee Valley Authority. A major purpose of AUTRC is to convert TVA and Alabama universities' research into commercial applications for use in existing or new industries and businesses in the State.

The research project at UAH will work in cooperation with TVA to provide a better scientific understanding of the regional ozone problems.

Proposals were evaluated by a committee of university representatives, TVA officials, and staff members of the Alabama Commission on Higher Education, with more than

$280,000 awarded by the Commission and TVA to UAH and five other universities, including Alabama A&M University, Auburn University, University of Alabama at Birmingham, University of South Alabama and University of North Alabama.

Emergency technician training begins

The Emergency Medicine Program of the UAH School of Primary Medical Care will begin accepting application/registration on October 1, 1990, for emergency medical technician-basic training during the Winter 1990 term. The registration procedure will be on a first-come first-serve basis.

Student orientation helps freshman entering college

Your knees knock. Your palms sweat. You cast frequent, nervous glances around your class. You are a FRESHMAN!

But being an incoming freshman here at UAH doesn't have to be a traumatic experience, thanks to student orientation and the peer counseling program.

Dr. Gary Biller, director of Student Development Services said a major part of student orientation is peer counseling.

"The key to this special program are the peer counselors themselves, noted Biller. "They're great!"

Biller, who has been head of the program since 1988, said between 13 to 15 students are selected from the university's five colleges to serve as peer counselors.

Once selected, peer counselors go through a rigorous three day training period with representatives from various departments and service areas on campus.

Biller said 30 to 40 percent of a peer counselor's time is spent learning group dynamics, and how to communicate effectively with new students.

"Initially, I applied to become a peer counselor because of the scholarship and salary that accompanied the job," said Lane Hosmer, a sophomore counselor. "However, the experience that I've gained from dealing with incoming freshmen is much more valuable than a salary. It is a wonderful feeling knowing that there are hundreds of students who look to us for guidance."

Biller said students who attend the UAH Orientation session have the opportunity to meet and talk with faculty, staff and fellow students and become familiar with UAH's policies, procedures and services. They also complete placement tests, order books, meet with their academic advisor, get their student ID made and register for fall classes.

"In terms of success, student orientation combined with peer counseling is a winner," Biller said.

Student Development Services offers variety of free services

The office of Student Development Services, located in the University Center Room 113, offers a variety of free services to UAH students. Staffed by three professional counselors and a staff secretary, SDS assists students as they adjust, grow and become fully-functioning academic members of the UAH community.

SDS continually evaluates and expands its programs to meet and accommodate the diverse needs of the UAH student population. A wide range of support services and resources are available to enhance personal growth and assist any UAH student during their academic matriculation. Services offered include:

Confidential personal counseling: Oftentimes there are personal stressors such as family problems, financial strains, relationship skills etc. that impede academic pursuits. These issues are confidentially and professionally dealt with so that academic decline, as a result of these conflicts, is minimized.

Free tutorial services: Contrary to popular belief, even A and B students need help in courses too! Tutors are available and provide free individual and/or group tutorial assistance to UAH students in almost all subject areas. Tutors are competent in their subject matter and recommended by their instructors. On the average, 250 to 300 students per quarter avail themselves of this service in order to enhance their academic class standing. Also, you may wish to supplement your income by being a tutor and helping fellow students at the same time.

Assistance for students with disabilities: SDS conscientiously works to assist students with disabilities overcome as many barriers as possible during their UAH academic career. Staffed by a professional full-time counselor, a variety of services are offered to assist disabled students. The most recent addition to this office has been a TDD (Telecommunication Device for the Deaf) to accommodate students with hearing or speech impairments. The TDD can be reached by calling the regular office phone at 895-6203. Other services for disabled students include:

- Franklin Language Master - an electronic dictionary and thesaurus. Available for temporary loan periods.
 - Cassette tape recorder
 - Books on tape through Recording for the Blind
 - Readers for class material and for exams
 - Free Tutoring
 - Student Guide Booklets - Available in regular or large print, this booklet is helpful to all disabled students who want to establish a good working relationship with faculty.
 - Testing and Reading Services - Free to all disabled students on a contractual basis. To receive these services, documentation of the disability and its functional limitations is necessary. All information is confidential and used

Campaign, film being distributed to prevent assaults

As 12 million college students start back to classes this week, the Rape Treatment Center at Santa Monica Hospital Medical Center has asked college students and administrators to join them in the fight against the campus rape epidemic by supporting the first comprehensive national campaign against campus sexual assault. At a press conference on September 4, "L.A. Law" television series stars Susan Dey and Corbin Bernsen joined Rape Treatment Center Director Gail Abarbanel to announce the national program which includes a new 20-minute film about campus sexual assault. The film titled, "Campus Rape," is hosted by Dey and Bernsen and has already been distributed by the Center to more than half the universities in the country. The Center encourages college administrators to adopt the film as part of orientation programs for all incoming students. The film was recently endorsed by the National Interfraternity Conference, which distributed copies to its members.

"The goal of the campaign and the Film is to reduce the epidemic number of campus sexual assaults," stated Abarbanel. "Recent studies indicate that each year, one in every six college women is a victim of rape or attempted rape and one in every 15 college men admit to committing sexual assault."

In addition to the film, which contains important information about rape and prevention strategies, campaign materials include powerful ads and posters for colleges to adopt, and proposals for state legislation requiring colleges to implement written procedures for handling sexual assault cases and mandatory rape prevention programs for

"Students must understand that rape is not sex; it's an act of violence with devastating consequences," stated actress Dey, who thinks the film is a valuable resource in educating students by exploring campus rape and its impact through interviews with four college women actually assaulted on college campuses. "I hope our film will help reverse the alarming campus rape statistics."

Actor Bernsen cited his support for the campaign, commenting, "Men must take a strong stand against rape. The campaign gives college men an opportunity to become part of the solution, rather than part of the problem."

"College students are more vulnerable to rape than any other age group," said Abarbanel. "To compound the problem, studies have shown that more than 90 percent of campus rapes go unreported. Our campaign provides colleges with effective materials and programs to end rape on campus."

"College administrators and student groups have to work together to solve the problem of campus sexual assaults," said Jonathan Bryant, executive vice president of the National Interfraternity Conference. "We strongly endorse the campaign and have distributed the film to our members nationwide to initiate student support of this effort."

To specifically address college administrators, the Rape Treatment Center mailed its booklet, "Sexual Assault on Campus: What Colleges Can Do," to every college president. The booklet urges adoption of a 10-point rape prevention program model which includes mandatory educational programs about rape, increased disciplinary hearings for offenders and comprehensive programs for assisting victims.

The Rape Treatment Center has also been a pioneering force in initiating tougher sexual assault legislation. As part of its national campaign, the Center has called upon governors nationwide to support legislation requiring colleges to have a written procedure for handling sexual assault cases, similar to a new California law supported by the Center. The Center is also encouraging the states to require that colleges provide rape prevention information during freshmen orientation, as New York state recently did.

Abarbanel also commended the many talented members of the entertainment industry who contributed their time and made the film and ads possible. "Campus Rape" was written by Emmy award winners Allan Burns and Seth Freedman. Compact Video donated film duplication services. The public service ads and posters were contributed by the prestigious advertising agency Dailey and Associates.

Abarbanel said, "The campaign's recommendations are inexpensive, yet effective. They will help reduce the incidence of rape on campus and ensure that victims are not revictimized by an insensitive system."

"Fall is here and I know everyone..."

by Cynthia R. Green
editor

Welcome, welcome, welcome! Fall is here and I know everyone is excited about getting back on the treadmill. What a way to live!

All incoming freshmen, take heart; although the 10 week term will seem very hectic at first, in a couple of weeks you will feel like old pros. The negligible 10 minutes between classes may ravel your nerves at first, especially travelling between buildings all the way across campus. Here's a hint to expedite the process: don't wait around for a parking space right in front of the building housing your class. Attack the first available parking space and take advantage of the extra few steps to strengthen your cardiovascular system. For maximum benefits, walk between ALL classes. Believe me, it can be done! (A word of warning though--during the winter term frostbite is a constant enemy.)

Another thing you will notice when you have visited each class is the amount of paper, time and energy spent warning you of the adverse effects created by plagiarism. But, of course none of you will resort to such a stupid thing as copying someone else's work as your own, even when the pressure of the term comes crashing in. Also, this plagiarism warning is addressed to ALL students, new and returning. Even though the UAH schedule is so very hectic, plagiarism catches up to the perpetrator eventually. (Right, David?) And what have you learned in the meantime? Hopefully not to copy something word-for-word and submit it as your own! (Right, David?)

So, enough preaching. Welcome (back) to UAH. Freshmen, get ready for the ride of your life. Returning students can tell you about the roller coaster ride you are climbing aboard. All I can say is hang in there!

"On behalf of the Exponent, welcome..."

by Susan Burnum
associate editor

On behalf of the Exponent, welcome to U.A.H., and for returning students, welcome back. Hope your summer was fun.

Enrollment is up from last year, as is new building construction here on the campus. Also, be aware that campus police are now using radar guns to check vehicle speed. Now, please understand that no one appointed me to be your mother (nag, nag, nag....), but please obey the 25 mph speed limit. Here are three good reasons why.

1. Crosswalk traffic is up. More people are using the pedestrian crossings between buildings rather than driving between parking lots (it's quicker), and it's easier to obey the "ped x-ing right-of-way rule" if you're driving within the speed limit.
2. New building construction requires heavy equipment, most of which is on wheels, just like your car. The emphasis here is on the word heavy. Please treat moving dump trucks with great respect and distance.

3. As a student, your budget is usually strict. But did you know that your time is at times worth ten dollars per minute?

Let me explain. The outer loop roads around the campus total about 2.65 miles in length. In a "worst case" situation, you would cover this distance in going from one end of campus to the other: 1.325 miles. If you were to exceed the speed limit by ten miles per hour, you'd save a total of 54 seconds. Whoopie. Big deal. However, if campus police pulls you over and tickets you for speeding, you owe U.A.H. ten dollars. You also lose the 54 seconds you saved, plus five to ten additional minutes while the man in uniform writes out your ticket. If you're already late to class, 54 seconds is trivial. Take your time.

Oh, and call your mother. She worries. (Nag, nag, nag....)

"Less than a year ago our planet seemed as..."

by Nelson Papucci

Less than a year ago our planet seemed as safe and secure as any time in history. "The Cold War is over", everyone rejoiced.

What a fickle planet this is. Or more appropriately, what fickle people we are.

A year ago I thought it would be interesting to ask people what they felt the most important issue facing the United States was. The responses reflected the post-Cold War euphoria: the environment, drugs, education, child care, etc.

My own answer to the question was: energy. Most people were shocked at that response.

Indeed, when Saddam Hussein invaded Kuwait in August, defense of our oil interests was a major objective in our deployment of forces in the Saudi desert. After all, oil is the lifeline of the Western economy. With Kuwait under his belt Hussein now lays claim to 20 percent of the world's oil supply and, had he invaded Saudi Arabia (as he gave every indication of doing) that total would have shot up to around 45 percent — a frightening scenario for the civilized world!

Our heavy dependence on foreign oil is certainly one reason we wring our hands over goings-on in the Middle East, the most volatile region in the world. Obviously, though, President Bush's decision to deploy our forces go far deeper than keeping oil prices down. Saddam Hussein, the "Butcher of Baghdad", is a dangerous and ruthless adversary. He has already been responsible for the appalling massacre of the Kurdish minority in his own land with chemical weapons in March 1988. This heinous act at the time was not loudly enough condemned by the world community, and many Americans didn't even know about it until the recent crisis brought it to light. Most people are still unaware of just how ghastly the effects of such weapons can be.

The US's short-term goals include the restoration of Kuwait and the defense of Saudi Arabia and neighboring countries. Our long-term objective is the overthrow of Hussein (probably involving his own people), the reduction of Iraqi imperialism and military might, and the continued free flow of oil through the Persian Gulf.

If our aims are to be achieved through fighting we must go in hard and all-out. We need to disable permanently Iraq's chemical and nuclear weapon facilities. For if we do only a partial job a humiliated and vengeful Hussein would be free in a few years to renew his bid for conquest of the Arab world.

The Gulf crisis has prompted talk of World War III and "Biblical proportions", that Hussein is the Antichrist and the current events are exactly as proscribed in the book of Revelations.

It could be. However, the Bible also tells us that no man knows the time of the end of the world. We've fooled ourselves before.

By following the proper course of action, by hitting Hussein hard and eliminating his abilities to initiate a major war, we can avert the terrible tragedy of all-out nuclear and chemical warfare.

If we are serious overseas we must become serious at home, too. If U.S. servicemen are to die, we must open the California and Gulf coasts and Arctic National Wildlife Refuge to oil drilling. We must double our nuclear power production in the next decade. This goes back to the point about "energy" being the most important issue facing the nation: until we address our dependence on foreign oil we are intrinsically drawn into affairs of madmen like Hussein.

And, not to be forgotten, we must maintain a strong national defense, especially investing in weapons such as the B-2, that will enable us to deter and punish future Saddam Husseins.

S.O.T.A.

Welcome from the Students Over Traditional Age club. A new school term has started, and we are looking forward to meeting all the non-traditional age students. We hope that we can be of service to you in beginning your studies here at UAH, and in order to do so, we have lined up a number of speakers that will ease your transition into college life. Our meetings are every Thursday from 12:15 to 1:15 p.m. in University Center room 127, except on October 11 and 25 when we will meet in Morton Hall room 129. The Fall agenda will be as follows:

September 20 Open
 September 27 Wellness Center, speaker: Donna Thompson
 October 4 Open
 October 11 Time Management, speaker: Gary Biller
 October 18 Open
 October 25 Pre-registration, speaker: Billye Ashebrenner
 November 1 Open
 November 8 Financial Aid, speaker: Mr. Gibson
 November 15 Open
 November 29 Open
 Please come and give us a try!

AED

Our first meeting of the fall term will be Tues., Sept. 18, at 12:15 in the U.C. room 146.

New AED officers were elected in August. Our officers are: President — Rebecca Conway, Vice-President — Paige Huber, Secretary — Scott Haase, Treasurer — Steve Tarquine, Historian — Byron Rubery, Associate Secretary — Laura Price. The faculty advisor for AED is Dr. Debra Moriarity. The AED honor society encourages excellence in premedical scholarship and binds together students with similar interests. Our members consist of those students desiring a professional career in medicine, dentistry, or the veterinary sciences.

The Medical Careers Club consists of students who are interested in any medically related field. Meeting times for both of these organizations are posted in the Science Building.

CKI

The members of CKI would like to welcome everyone back to a new term. We hope you had a great summer. CKI hopes you're ready for the Fall because we planned many fun filled projects and events over the summer.

We started off with a S.C.A.N (Stop Child Abuse & Neglect) puppet show for the Girl's Club. It is a project which CKI volunteers for S.C.A.N in helping to relay messages of abusement and such to the children in an entertaining way. Kids love it and we love doing it.

Next weekend, we plan to do the trash on campus. There are many ways to help campus look better and this is one way. CKI members pitch in.

It is a dirty job, but someone has to do it.

If you or a friend would like to know more about CKI (Circle K International), there will be a CKI FALL OPEN HOUSE on Oct. 4th at 8:15 pm in Exhibit Hall A in the University Center. There will be refreshments and even a raffle prize, so come on by. We hope to see you soon!!

A reminder to members that fees are due Oct. 1st, so please...pay up!!! If anyone has any questions about anything (concerning CKI), just give me a ring at 837-8431 and ask for "Di". Hope to hear from you!!! Have a great weekend.

Delta Chi

The brothers of Delta Chi fraternity would like to welcome everyone back and tell them we hope they had an enjoyable summer. Things pretty much picked up where they left off last year. We are continuing construction on the garage in preparation for our Delta Blues party this weekend. Everyone is invited; it's an open air concert. We will be featuring Microwave Dave and the Nukes live at the house. Everyone is invited to help us break in our reworked garage. The band will start playing at 8, so we'll see you then.

We would also like to report that our retreat was very successful last weekend. Thanks Poo Bear for the use of Camp Kennamer. We've got some very good ideas and plans for this year, so ya'll watch for us.

ASCE

The UAH student chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers will hold its first meeting of the term on Tuesday, September 25 at 8:00 p.m. The meeting will be at J Gregry's Pizzeria on the corner of Jordan Lane and Holmes Avenue. Mr. Joe Trevarrow will speak to the group on "Resumes and Job Interviewing for Engineers". Mr. Trevarrow is the personnel director for USBI in Huntsville and he will the group some tips on what helps to make a successful resume. All interested persons are encouraged to attend.

SEDS to hold first meeting, plan upcoming activities

The Students for the Exploration and Development of Space (SEDS) wants you! If any student from any school is interested in space and wants to work on space flight projects we want to see you. We will be having our first meeting on Wednesday September 26th at 8:00 pm. This meeting will be in the University Center. Look for flyers on the walls. We will also have a lunch meeting for those who cannot attend a night meeting in the University Center on Tuesday the 25th at 11:30 am. Look for the flyers to get the room numbers for both meetings. We have been working all summer to get our projects going and here is a list of what we have to offer. Any student working on these projects will be able to get credit for these projects from the school as technical electives and/or special projects classes. There is at least one Masters level dissertation in these projects. Any student wanting further information please contact us at 895-6119. If we are not there please leave a message on the machine.

Get Away Special Science and Engineering Program: For this project we have space reserved on the Space Shuttle for two experiment canisters to go in the cargo bay. We are looking for people who are Electrical, Mechanical or Aerospace students or just those interested in these areas. In addition we are looking for English students who want to work in technical writing to work with us on documentation. Artists who want to see their work be shown on a widespread basis are invited also to work with us.

SEDS Tethered Satellite Project (SEDSAT 1): For this project we are designing and building a satellite that will fly in April of 1993. This satellite weighs about seventy pounds and will be operational in space for at least three years. We are working with NASA Marshall Space Flight Center on this mission. We are looking for all disciplines of engineers, English students and interested science students for this project. Any artists who are interested in space flight are also welcome. Business and accounting students are also encouraged to join us.

SEDS/UAH Space Education Directory: Not all of our projects need rocket scientists! We are writing a proposal to the UAH Space Grant Consortium to put together an international space education dictionary. We are looking for English, Arts, and business students for help to put this directory together. This Directory will be published and distributed internationally for the use of students interested in space related education.

Werner Von Braun Plaza at UAH Project: Dr. Von Braun was probably one of the three most important people in America's space program that put Apollo on the moon. He also was instrumental in Huntsville in starting the Space and Rocket Center, which led to space camp, and also he secured the funding from the Alabama Legislature to begin our University's famed research institute. We are supporting the project to build a monument to this great scientist at our school. Brian Barnett a SEDS alumnus has been successfully working with the officials of the University to get this memorial that includes a place for students to study and gather outside near the center of the campus. We are looking for students or other campus organizations to work with us on this project. Funds will have to be raised and much other work needs to be done to realize this project. This project would be perfect for business, or economics students interested in making a lasting contribution to our school.

Law school forum to take place in Atlanta, other major cities

This fall, people who are considering law school will have a unique opportunity to meet and talk with law school representatives from across the country at the Law School Forum in Atlanta to be held at the Radisson Hotel, September 21-22. The forum is one of five scheduled to take place in major cities across the country in a recruitment program designed to bring prospective students and law schools together.

The forums are sponsored by the Law School Admission Council (LSAC), a nonprofit association of law schools in the United States and Canada. Law School Admission Services (Law Services), the operating subsidiary of the Council that organizes the forums, is best known for giving the Law School Admission Test (LSAT) to more than 120,000 prospective law students each year. The LSAT is required for admission to all American Bar Association (ABA)-approved law schools.

Last year's Atlanta forum attracted more than 1,600 prospective law students. More than 100 ABA-approved schools have agreed to participate in this year's forum. Of these, three schools are located in Georgia.

"This program provides students a unique opportunity to 'visit' far-away schools in which they have an interest without ever leaving home," says Beth Cobb O'Neil, associate executive director of the council. "The forums benefit both law schools and their potential students. Over 40 percent of all forum attendees become law school applicants in the same year that they attend, and over 50 percent apply within two years of forum attendance -- impressive results."

According to O'Neil, the Law School Forums present an excellent opportunity for people who are considering legal careers to get firsthand information on what it takes to get into law school. Forum participants can ask law school representatives about the range of test scores and grade-point averages required for admission. They can also purchase such helpful publications from Law Services as Financing Your Law School Education, The Official Guide to U.S. Law Schools, and The Right Law School for You.

At the same time, they can pick up law school catalogs and financial aid information. Participants are also invited to view videotapes on taking the LSAT, legal educational opportunities for women and minorities, and legal career options.

The forum is scheduled to take place at the Radisson Hotel Atlanta, Courtland and International Boulevards, on Friday from noon until 7:00 p.m. and on Saturday from 10:00 a.m. until 3:00 p.m. Admission is free.

Forums are scheduled on subsequent weekends this fall in Chicago (October 19-20), Boston (November 2-3), and Los Angeles (November 9-10). This year's first forum took place in New York (September 14-15).

For more information on the 1990 Law School Forums, contact Law Services, P.O. Box 40, Newtown, PA 18940-0040, 215/968-1120.

Three family doctors join medical school faculty

Three board-certified family physicians have recently joined the full-time faculty of The University of Alabama in Huntsville School of Primary Medical Care. Their responsibilities include teaching and supervision of medical students and family practice residents, research, and care of family practice patients in the UAH Medical Clinics.

Michael M. Linder, M.D., has been appointed associated professor of family medicine and director of the UAH-Huntsville Hospital family practice residency program. Before coming to Huntsville, for five years he was director of graduate training for the family practice residency program at the Medical Center Hospital in Columbus, which was affiliated with Emory University Medical School. In 1983-84, he was a family physician for the CIGNA Healthplan in Houston, Texas, and was appointed chief of staff during that time. He has also served as chief of emergency medical services and then as chief of the primary care department at the U.S. Army Community Hospital, Fort Campbell, Kentucky.

Carol P. Motley, M.D., was a member of the faculty of Emory University and coordinator of the medical student clerkship in family medicine at The Medical Center Family Practice Residency Program from 1985 until this summer. She will also serve as coordinator of the student clerkship in family medicine at the School of Primary Medical Care, where she has been appointed associated professor. Her many activities on behalf of maternal and child health in Georgia over the past five years have included appointments to the state's Maternal and Infant Council, the Governor's Council for Infant Mortality, and the state Perinatal Board. For the past two years, she chaired the maternal, adolescent, and child committee of the Georgia Academy of Family Physicians.

Laurie Anne Aten, M.D., is the first fellow in family medicine/aerospace medicine to be appointed at the School of Primary Medical Care. After completing her family practice residency at the University of Nebraska Medical Center, she spent four years in practice with Maxicare/HealthAmerica in Lincoln, Nebraska. In 1988 she entered this country's only civilian aerospace medicine residency program, at Wright State University in Dayton, Ohio. Her UAH fellowship is in fulfillment of a year's medical practice required to be eligible to take the aerospace medicine boards. In addition to seeing family practice patients and supervising family practice residents in the UAH Medical Clinics, she serves as physician liaison between NASA's Johnson Space Center in Houston and Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville for development of the life support system for Space Station Freedom.

The addition of Drs. Linder, Motley, and Aten to the School of Primary Medical Care faculty brings the number of full-time family physicians with the school to seven.

New musical ensemble is being organized on campus

A town and gown, workshop-performing ensemble, "Music for A While Ensemble" is being organized on The University of Alabama in Huntsville campus this fall. Directed by Prof. D. Royce Boyer, the ensemble will study and perform early music, and new, contemporary sounds.

In recent years, scholarship in performance practices of the medieval, renaissance and baroque periods has been intense. Ensembles specializing in music from these periods abound. Universities offer major programs in early music. The Music for A While Ensemble will provide UAH students and interested amateur musicians in North Alabama the opportunity to explore exciting repertory rarely performed in our region.

A recent UAH visit by American composer, Leslie Bassett, prompted Dr. Boyer to include some of the musical avant-garde, broadening the ensemble's outlook. Often, there is a close correlation between the styles of today's music and the distant past. The Music for A While Ensemble will encourage members to experiment with a variety of musical genres.

Membership is open to singers and instrumentalists who can read music and who have had experience performing with traditional school, church, community choral and instrumental ensembles. UAH student members may enroll for University credit. Rehearsals will be held Monday evenings, beginning September 24th at 7:30 p.m. For more information, call Dr. Boyer at the UAH Department of Music, 895-6436.

Get together for bed race at UAH Annual Picnic on Oct. 6

Are you ready to give your organization a little exposure this fall? Want to show that your group knows how to have fun? And maybe even win some money?

Get your teams of five together now for the 1990 Bed Race at the UAH Annual Picnic, Saturday, October 6. You wear the "jammies" and we'll provide the beds. And don't forget to bring the whole gang to cheer you on as you lay the competition to rest. Don't sleep on it too long. Get your entry in today!

For some more clowning around, be a part of the Midway. Come up with an idea for a carnival booth, like face painting, frisbee-thru-a-hoop, putt-putt golf or balloon darts. Charge 25 or 50 cents to cover the cost of inexpensive prizes like candy or small toys. Who knows—you might even make a profit. But one thing is for sure—the best carnival booth wins $50.

Show UAH students, faculty, staff & alumni the spirit of your organization. Pick up an entry form at the UC info desk today and turn it back in at the desk by 5 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 3, 1990.

If you have any questions, call the Alumni Affairs office at 895-6085. See you Oct. 6 at Morton Hall for the UAH Picnic!

Poetry contest for students

The deadline for the American Poetry Association's contest is September 30. The contest is open to everyone, and entry is free.

The Grand Prize is $1,000, and the First Prize $500. There are 152 prizes worth $11,000 in all.

"Every student who writes poetry should enter this contest. The judges look for new and unknown poets, and students often win," said Robert Nelson, publisher for the association. "You don't have to be a professional poet. Your sincerity, originality and feeling are what the judges look for."

Poets should send one original poem, no more than 20 lines, name and address on the top of the page, to American Poetry Association, Dept. CO-84, 250-A Potrero St., P.O. Box 1803, Santa Cruz, CA 95061. Entries must be postmarked by September 30. A new contest opens October 1.

Each poem is considered for publication in the American Poetry Anthology, a treasury of current verse.

Entrants receive the "Poet's Guide to Getting Published," a four-page booklet full of information every poet needs to know.

The American Poetry Association has sponsored poetry contests for 8 years and has awarded $200,000 in prizes to 3,400 poets.

University cafeteria contest offers prizes

A University Cafeteria should be a comfortable "hang out" for the university community, a place where good food and good friends meet, or where students can take a few minutes between classes to organize their thoughts. However, the University Center Cafeteria has a major identity crisis and you can help!!

Food services is sponsoring a contest to "Name the Cafeteria." Customers will submit ideas and then vote on their favorite entry.

The contest winner will receive a five meal dining plan for the Fall quarter. The first and second runners up will receive prizes as well.

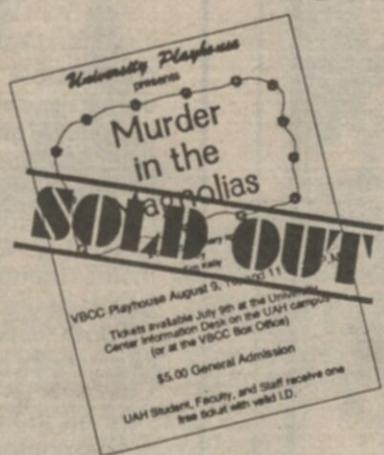

Entries will be taken Monday, September 17 - Thursday, September 20.

The winning name will be unveiled during a grand opening celebration on Monday, October 1, 1990.

A lot of campus rapes start here.

Whenever there's drinking or drugs, things can get out of hand.
So it's no surprise that many campus rapes involve alcohol.

But you should know that under any circumstances, sex without the other person's consent is considered rape. A felony, punishable by prison. And drinking is no excuse.

That's why, when you party, it's good to know what your limits are.
You see, a little sobering thought now can save you from a big problem later.

"Ecotopia" — Radical book offers timely message

by Susan Burnum
features editor

I'd like to recommend an older book in this week's review. "Ecotopia" was first published in 1975, and at the time it was considered quite radical in the ecological and societal principles it espoused. Now it is being touted as "An environmental classic"—(Time) and is being re-released as such a generation later. Many of its prophesies about the environmental plight of a poisoned world are being fulfilled, and it is uncanny at times how well "Ecotopia" of 15 years past echoes today's headlines.

The story is set in 1999 in an alternate America. It is twenty years since Washington state, Oregon, and northern California seceded from the United States, and no contact of any kind has since been allowed by the new government, Ecotopia. William Weston, an American investigative reporter for the Times-Post, is being allowed by the Ecopian government to visit the new country, in hopes that a fair and forthright examination of the new nation can promote good relations between the two countries.

The world that Weston is welcomed into is radically different from 1999 America. In Ecotopia the health of the environment takes highest priority by law, and the whole of society is framed with this in mind. Zero population growth and recycling of all artificial and natural waste is gospel. Breakthrough technologies are used only if their effects on the environment are neutral or beneficial. Government control of schools, health care, scientific research, and the media are highly decentralized (Thomas Jefferson would be proud). Cities are arranged in rings of "minicities," connected by railway systems. Private automobiles are outlawed, and travel is generally by rail, bicycle, or foot. Even the clothing worn in Ecotopia is quite different: colorful, yet practical and comfortable.

Weston's visit to Ecotopia ultimately changes his life. In its citizens he finds acceptance of his personal strengths and weaknesses, and, ironically, becomes the person that he is meant to be. A world that seems bizarre to him at first gradually comes to mean a better way of living, and by the end of the book he has become an Ecopian.

"Ecotopia" is written from William Weston's point of view, and is very effective as a persuasive tool for the environmentalists. Though it supports the same principles as E. F. Schumacher's "Small Is Beautiful," it offers a more entertaining read, for the people of Ecotopia are believable and likable, and the story of Weston's transformation is intriguing. There is food for thought in this book.

Volleyball team wins college classic tournament

by Jennifer Grace
sports editor

UAH's first year head volleyball coach Connie Nicholson had a challenge facing her two weeks ago when volleyball practice began: Could she and her assistant Anne McArthur develop their young, slightly disorganized team into a unified, more confident squad of players in time for their first tournament, just eight practice days later?

The answer, undoubtedly, is yes, as the 1990 Charger volleyball team made history at UAH by bringing home a first place trophy from the Trevecca Nazarene College Classic Volleyball Tournament, held on September 14 and 15. UAH's four year old volleyball program had not achieved a first place victory in a tournament before now. Nor had a UAH volleyball team ever had a five match winning streak, which is what Nicholson's team has after competing in the tournament.

"Winning the tournament was a surprise," commented coach Nicholson, "in that I've always felt that the one thing you can't train people for is competition. You can teach them the skills they need to perform but you can't really train them for adversity. The team rose to the occasion better than I expected considering their past history. I knew we had the best skills of any team in the tournament, it was just a matter of whether or not we could bear down and concentrate on doing what it takes to win."

Coach Nicholson received a different kind of surprise before the tournament even began. An hour before UAH was to play, it was learned that starter Jennifer Hutchinson would not be playing in the tournament due to an NCAA ruling concerning her eligibility. This left the Chargers with a squad of eight eligible players.

The tournament consisted of round-robin matches on Friday night, in order to determine the seedings for the single elimination tournament on Saturday. Despite some initial jitters, the Chargers defeated their first opponents, Tennessee Temple, by the scores 15-4 and 15-6. First year player Tanya Wigley performed exceptionally well for the Chargers making seven kills from her left-side hitter position, and by making eighteen successful digs in the back row. Veteran middle hitter Billie Richards also aided the Chargers with her four kills and fifteen digs from the middle back position. Jennifer Grace, the team's only senior, made her debut as a middle hitter, having rotated from left-side hitter to right-side hitter to bench in previous years. Grace used a series of tips, dinks, and other attacks to make her 7 kills for the Chargers.

UAH then competed against Trevecca Nazarene College with successful results, defeating the Trojans 3-15, 15-11, 15-13. The Chargers exhibited courage and confidence in coming from behind to claim their victory. Junior left-side hitter Tracy Medjrich made seven kills and 15 digs for the Chargers, while Tanya Wigley had nine kills and 20 digs. Setters Leann Hill and Korohen Smith combined for 6 kills, aside from the 31 sets they gave the team during the match.

Against Cumberland College, UAH came out a little cold, losing the first game 2-15. Then the defense tightened up as Richards and Wigley dug ball after ball from the backcourt while Grace began to block some of Cumberland's attacks. Freshman left-side hitter Rae Scott came in off the bench on several occasions to give Medjrich a rest, and meanwhile surprised Cumberland with a couple of big plays at the net. This helped the Chargers to win the next two games 15-9, 15-7.

The next morning, UAH defeated Temple again in the semi-finals, 15-11, 15-8. Trevecca defeated Cumberland in a very close three game match in the other semi-final, to set up their meeting with the Chargers for the first place victory. UAH started off fairly well, winning the first game 15-7. Then the momentum swung away from the Chargers and Trevecca strengthened their attack to win the second game 15-4. In the third game UAH traded side-outs with Trevecca for many rotations before finally pulling away. As first year player Gina Vaughn held the serve, setters Hill and Smith set up Wigley for several kills both down the line and cross court. The final point was scored on a sharp middle attack from Richards which left the Trojans scrambling on the floor. UAH won the third game 15-8, and claimed the first place trophy for the tournament. Billie Richards and Korohen Smith were named to the All-Tournament Team.

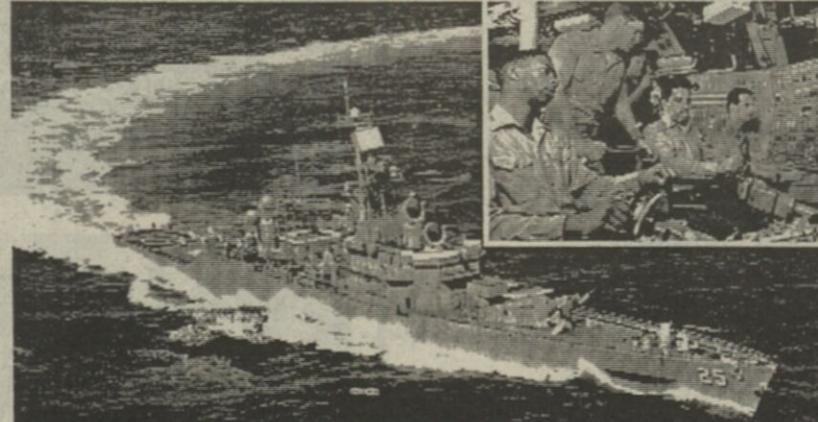

Congratulations Chargers!!

TRAIN WITH THE NUCLEAR INDUSTRY'S LEADER, AND YOU COULD END UP LEADING THE INDUSTRY.

Over half the nuclear reactors in America are operated by one organization. The United States Navy.

The technology is the most advanced in the world. The men in charge are the industry's best. That's why the Navy Nuclear Propulsion Officer Candidate Program is among the most sophisticated training available.

It has to be!

College juniors and seniors who qualify for the program can earn $1,000 a month while still in school. In addition, you get a $4,000 bonus upon entrance into the program and an additional $2,000 when you complete your Naval studies.

And, as an officer in today's Nuclear

Navy, you receive a year of paid graduate-level training—gaining the experience and credentials that can put you at the forefront of the nuclear industry.

You must be a U.S. citizen, 25 years of age or younger upon commissioning, working toward a bachelor's or master's degree. You must also have completed a minimum of one year each of calculus and calculus-based physics with a "B" average or better.

If you're thinking about a career in the nuclear field, start at the top. And lead the adventure as a Navy officer. You can apply after your sophomore year. Call Navy Management Programs for more information. 1-800-284-6289

I would've bought a Macintosh even without the student discount.

Greg Gallant
Consumer Economics and Housing
Cornell University

"The first time I saw a Macintosh, I was immediately hooked. It's a work of art. I saw the student pricing and my next move was obvious: get one.

"Some other computers are cheaper, but they're a pain to learn, and working on them can be a grueling experience. Last year, a friend bought another kind of computer against my advice and has used it for maybe 15 hours. What a waste.

"Macintosh, on the other hand, is a logical extension of the mind. It lets you concentrate on what's in your paper, not on how to get it on paper. You can create professional-looking documents in minutes, and you lose the fear of learning new programs because they all work in the same way.

"Once you've worked with a Macintosh, there's no turning back."

Intramural program at UAH will do well this year

The 1989-90 Intramural program was very successful, with participant levels in excess of 1400 students, faculty, staff and alumni. The Intramural Department is looking forward to an even more successful 1990-91 season. Carlos Petersen, the Intramural Director, sees accommodating the ever-increasing number of students, faculty, staff, and alumni who participate in the Intramural aspect of the program. A survey of student interest in the Intramural Program for development of activities to better serve the UAH student body will be published in a future edition of the Exponent. Your participation in the survey is essential for the Intramural Department to provide the best possible program to suit your needs.

Team competition in basketball, flag football, floor hockey, softball and volleyball will again be offered. An Intramural Crew Regatta and a frisbee golf tournament have been added to the program this year as well as cosponsorship with the University Center for bowling, pool, and ping pong tournaments. A racquetball tournament, Schick's Super Hoops, a tennis tournament and the Fourth Annual UAH Weight Lifting Competition are also scheduled. Listed below is a schedule of the 1990-91 Intramural Program. Be sure to mark your calendars now so you won't miss any of the fun and fellowship from good, healthy sports competitions with your friends and fellow students. Let's make this the best year ever for Intramural Sports.

plays basketball for UAH, will be joining the volleyball squad. At this point, the freshman recruits being added to the team are Ray Scott, an outside hitter from Athens, and possibly Dana McClure, who may be redshirted for this year. Coach Nicholson also expects to sign a transfer student from Southern Mississippi University, Jennifer Hutchinson. Hutchinson will have sophomore eligibility status. Due to a new NCAA rule stating that no competition is to be held prior to the school's registration, several of the volleyball team's scheduled matches in early September have been dropped or rescheduled. The team plans to meet on September third to discuss the upcoming season, and will begin practice on September 4th. The team will be wearing new uniforms and practice gear this fall as they begin an exciting season under the coaching of Nicholson and McArthur. UAH will compete in several volleyball tournaments and will also be hosting a tournament of their own, which is currently scheduled for October 5th and 6th.

Good Luck to all the players and the new coaching staff!!
